1. Curriculum/Plan de estudios

1.1. CONFIGURATION OF THE STUDENT'S CURRICULUM

The curricula of official university degrees have common guidelines such as the calculation of academic credit on the one hand and, on the other, the organisation of these plans in different blocks, which in the case of the bachelor's degrees are as follows:

- Basic subjects: constitute the basic and fundamental learning of the branch of knowledge to which the degree belongs. These subjects are realized in modules of 6 credits each and are offered in the first half of the curriculum.
- Compulsory subjects: are the formative elements determined discretionally by the University in its curricula with the characteristic of being obligatory for the student.
- Elective subjects: are the formative elements determined discretionally by the University in its curricula with the characteristic of being elective for the student. There is a wide range of options in line with the objectives and competences established in each degree, to accommodate the diversity of the student body when drawing up their personal learning plans.
- In addition, undergraduate students must carry out an Undergraduate dissertation (TFG). In accordance with the objectives and contents established in the compulsory and basic subjects, students must carry out, defend and present a Competence Portfolio that demonstrates the application of the theoretical, methodological and technical knowledge acquired throughout the course, and the development of the skills and abilities of a professional in the study profile. This work will take the form of the presentation and defence of an undergraduate dissertation (TFG) consisting of an exercise to integrate the formative content received and the skills acquired. In order to enrol in the undergraduate dissertation (TFG), the student must meet the requirements established for each degree.
- Work Placement: it is a set of activities oriented towards learning based on action and experience to allow the acquisition and integration of skills and knowledge. In accordance with the objectives established in the compulsory and core modules, students must carry out work placement developing the specified competences associated with the degree, acquired in the course of the four years of study. The work placement must allow students, among other activities, to discover, analyse and understand the context and the management processes in organizations, institutions and companies. The work placement must be carried out in institutions and companies that have agreements with the University of Granada. The work placement course is elective (except for the Grado (Bachelor's Degree) in Tourism, where they are compulsory) and will take place during the last year of the Degree. In order to enrol in the work placement, the student must meet the requirements established for each degree.
- Languages: As per the Agreements adopted by the Academic Committee of the Council of Andalusian Public Universities, concerning minimum common contents of Undergraduate Teaching, as well as the Circular of 10 June, 2010, of the General Directorate of Universities of the Junta de Andalucía, students who take this Degree must prove, before obtaining the Degree, linguistic competence in a foreign language at level B1 or higher, in accordance with the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages.

1.2. ACADEMIC INFORMATION

Grado (Bachelor's Degree) in Economics (Bilingual Programme) (GECO-BILING)

A four-years degree consisting of 240 ECTS credits (72 ECTS credits from basic training, 120 ECTS credits from compulsory subjects, 6 ECTS credits from compulsory undergraduate dissertation (TFG), 42 elective ECTS credits).

With regard to languages, a B1 level of a foreign language must be accredited to obtain the degree. The University will establish the accreditation system.

Places offered: 60

Professional Opportunities: The main opportunities that a professional from this discipline can find are focused on the financial sector, banks, savings banks, credit unions and other financial institutions, consulting, advisory, insurance and mutual companies, in private companies in positions of administration and management. Another professional opportunity is career in Public Administration and in the educational and research system.

1.3. STRUCTURE OF THE CURRICULUM

This section presents, firstly, the summary of subjects and distribution in ECTS credits of the Grado (Bachelor's Degree) in Economics (Bilingual Programme) and, secondly, a table with the time schedule of the Curriculum for this degree.

SUMMARY OF SUBJECTS AND DISTRIBUTION IN ECTS CREDITS

TYPE OF SUBJECT	CREDITS
Basic	72
Compulsory	120
Elective	42
Undergraduate dissertation (TFG)	6
TOTAL CREDITS	240

As regards the elective subjects, the curriculum offers up to 15 courses of 6 credits each, plus the possibility of doing elective Work placement (12 credits). This means a total offer of 102 credits for elective studies, of which the student must acquire 42. Thus, a wide selection of elective courses is offered, in line with the objectives and competencies established in the degree, specifically, to accommodate the diversity of the student body when drawing up their personal learning plans.

In order to promote transversality between different curricula and for the student to participate in the design of their education, they may take an option from among the selection of options of the degree itself or choose complete modules from other degrees that are offered at the University of Granada and, in particular, in the Faculty of Economic and Business. However, with a view to encouraging training in computer science, students may take not only the complete module, but independently any Computer science course from those provided in the Degrees of Finance and Accounting, Marketing and Market Research and Tourism.

Students may obtain academic recognition in credits for participation in university activities for culture, sports, student representation, solidarity and cooperation up to a maximum of 12 credits for the total curriculum undertaken.

Work placement is elective (12 credits) and will be carried out during the last year of the Degree. In order to enrol in the work placement, the student must have at least 72 ECTS credits of basic training and 90 ECTS credits of compulsory courses.

In order to enrol in the undergraduate dissertation (TFG) (6 credits), which is compulsory, the student must have earned at least 70% of the credits of the degree, that is, 168 credits, distributed as follows:

- 60 credits of basic training,
- At least 90 compulsory credits and
- The rest, if applicable, can be made up with elective courses to a maximum of 18 credits.

In addition, at the time of enrolling in the Undergraduate dissertation (TFG), the student must be enrolled in all the credits that are missing to finish the Degree.

With regard to languages, as per the Agreements adopted by the Academic Committee of the Council of Andalusian Public Universities, concerning minimum common contents of Undergraduate Teaching, as well as the Circular of 10 June, 2010, of the General Directorate of Universities of the Junta de Andalucía, students who take this Degree must prove, before obtaining the Degree, linguistic competence in a foreign language at level B1 or higher, in accordance with the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages. More information at sl.ugr.es/0dnQ

Students enrolled in the Grado (Bachelor's Degree) in Economics (Bilingual Programme) must have the necessary linguistic skills in this foreign language. For this reason, as per the Protocol for teaching in English (approved by the Governing Council of the University of Granada on 21 July, 2017), a recommended linguistic level of B2 is established, and never less than B1 of the Common European Framework. 2. ACADEMIC AND ADMINISTRATIVE INFORMATION OF SPECIAL INTEREST TO THE STUDENT.

2.1. CALENDAR OF DATES AND DEADLINES OF INTEREST

The calendar of dates and deadlines of interest for the academic year can be consulted in the "students" section of the web page for the Faculty of Economic and Business (<http://fccee.ugr.es>). Among others, this web page includes the periods referring to such important academic issues for the student as those mentioned below:

- Period of Self-registration.
- Period of on-site registration for justified reasons.
- Period of Self-alterations to Registration.
- Period of registration cancellation.
- Period of Grant application.
- Period of requesting recognition of credits.
- Application period for exam clashes by each of the examination sessions.
- Application period for submission to the special examination session for November.
- Application period for curricular compensation...

2.2. CONTINUANCE REGULATIONS OF THE UNIVERSITY OF GRANADA

The most important issues considered in these continuance regulations are summarized below. For more information, consult the "UGR Continuance Regulations for Undergraduate and Master's Students", approved at the Plenary Session of the Social Council held on 28 June, 2016 (BOUGR No. 109, of 8 July, 2016) and the modification of its chapters 5, 7 and 10 approved by Agreement of the Social Council of 28 June, 2018 (BOUGR no. 133, of 6 July, 2018)

- Examination Sessions: The University will guarantee a minimum of two examination sessions per academic year for the evaluation of a certain course. To pass it, the student will have had a maximum of 6 examination sessions, either ordinary and/or extraordinary.
 - For the computation of the maximum of 6 examination sessions, only those evaluation examination sessions in which the student has taken part will be taken into account, and where their grade appears in the corresponding official examination results. "Absent" will not be understood as a grade.
 - Students who do not pass the course in the sixth evaluation examination session will not be able to remain in this degree at the University of Granada, unless the student is in a position to exercise the right to curricular compensation considered in the UGR Assessment Policy and Regulation.
- Continuance in the studies commenced: In order to continue their studies, new students enrolled in any official undergraduate degree at the University of Granada must pass at least 6 credits of the first year of the corresponding curriculum. At the end of their second academic year in a degree, in order to continue their studies in the above, the student must have acquired at least 18 credits in the case of full-time students, or 12 credits, in the case of part-time students.
- Period of continuance in the degree: Students enrolled full-time in the degrees taught at the Faculty of Economics and Business will have a maximum of seven years of enrolment in the degree to finish their studies, except in agreements of Double Grados (Bachelor's Degrees) that will be 9 years. However, students who have a maximum of 5% of the credits or 2 courses with a maximum of 15 credits remaining to finish their studies, excluding the undergraduate dissertation (TFG), will have, for one time only, an additional academic year to finish their studies.

2.3. SINGLE FINAL ASSESSMENT (EVALUACIÓN ÚNICA FINAL)

Students may request a single final assessment for justified reasons, through the electronic procedure, to the Director of the Department of the course for which this evaluation is requested in the first two weeks of teaching the course or, where appropriate, in the first two weeks from the day of actual enrolment.

For more information, consult Chapter IV of the UGR Assessment Policy and Regulation, approved in the extraordinary session of the Governing Council on 20 May, 2013 and whose last amendment was approved by the Governing Council Agreements in the session of 26 October, 2016 (BOUGR No. 112, of 9 November, 2016).

2.4. EXAMINATION SESSIONS

Students enrolled at the University of Granada will be entitled to two evaluation examination sessions, one ordinary and one extraordinary, per course and academic year.

In addition, students will have a special examination session, which they may request within the established period as long as they meet the following requirements:

- Have been enrolled in previous courses in the course for which said examination session is requested. (This requirement will not be applicable to the Undergraduate dissertation (TFG) , in this case a special examination session may be requested without having been previously enrolled).
- Be in a position to pass a maximum of 30 credits to finish their undergraduate studies, without taking into account the undergraduate dissertation (TFG) in this computation.

In the case of not passing the course in this special examination session, the student will have only one of the two remaining examination session of the academic year.

For more information, consult Chapter V of the UGR Assessment Policy and regulation, approved in the extraordinary session of the Governing Council on 20 May, 2013 and whose last amendment was approved by the Council Agreements of Government in the session of 26 October, 2016 (BOUGR No. 112, of 9 November, 2016).

2.5. COURSE COMPENSATION

Students who are missing a single course to complete their studies may request curricular compensation, without taking into account the undergraduate dissertation (TFG) in this computation, and provided they meet the following requirements:

- Be enrolled in the target course of the curricular compensation. (In the case where a student requests the compensation when they have exhausted the six calls, this requirement will not apply)
- Have completed at least 60% of the curriculum of their degree at the University of Granada.
- Have exhausted at least four examination sessions.
- Have obtained a final mark equal to or greater than 3 points out of 10 in at least two of these examination sessions.

For more information, consult Chapter VIII of the UGR Assessment Policy and Regulation, approved in the extraordinary session of the Governing Council of 20 May, 2013 and whose last amendment was approved by the Governing Council Agreements in the session of 26 October, 2016 (BOUGR No. 112, of 9 November, 2016).

2.6. RECOGNITION OF CREDITS

The student should consult Title II (Recognition and Transfer of Credits) of the Academic Management Regulations of the University of Granada, approved in the ordinary session of the Governing Council on 23 July, 2021 (BOUGR nº 171, of 28 July, 2021).

In this regard, the student must consider that the recognition of Basic courses included in these Regulations must be requested from the Administrator office of the Faculty of Economics and Business at the beginning of the first academic year in which students begin their studies in this Faculty.

2.7. WORK PLACEMENT

- The student may take optionally WORK PLACEMENT IN COMPANIES in institutions and companies that have formalized or are formalizing an agreement with the University of Granada.
- Their objective will be to apply and complete the knowledge acquired in their academic education, facilitating their employability and fostering their entrepreneurial capacity.
- For all questions related to the procedure for taking up work placement in companies, consult the Manual of Frequently Asked Questions about Company Internships at: <https://fccee.ugr.es/sites/centros/fccee/public/ficheros/Curso%202022-23/FAQ.pdf>
- This work placement may be recognized by the elective course WORK PLACEMENTS of the curriculum, as long as the student meets the requirements detailed in the following point.
- Before the start of the work placement, the students must appear in person at the Faculty administrator's office and present the documentation proving that they have been accepted to carry out these work placements. The Faculty administrator's office will then:
 1. Carry out the procedures for the assignment of an academic Tutor who will ensure the authorized progression of the work placement.
 2. Determine whether or not, at the student's request, to enrol them in the "Work Placement" course (offered in the 4th year with 12 elective credits). To this end, the following will be required, among other issues:
 - a) In the case of the Grado (Bachelor's Degree) in Economics, that the student has acquired 72 basic credits and at least 90 compulsory credits.
 - b) That the Work Placement have a duration of at least 360 uninterrupted hours (extensions to be carried out will be considered).
 - c) When the requirements covered in section a) or b) are not met, the Work Placement may be started (assigning an academic tutor), but the student may not enrol in the Work Placement course. However, if the requirement of "minimum credits passed" included in section a) is met after the start of the Work Placement, the 360 hours required in section b) will begin to count from that moment until the end of the Work Placement, and not from the date they started. In this case, the student may enrol in the course " Work Placement" at the Faculty administrator's office.
- To counter the uncertainty of being accepted by a company for a work placement, the student can also choose to enrol in two elective courses, preferably from the second semester. In this case, the registration for these electives may be substituted for the one corresponding to the "work placement" when the registration requirements for this aforementioned course are met, and this registration is carried out within the deadlines established by the Faculty administrator's office. After these deadlines, the student may enrol in the course "work placement" by paying the public prices corresponding to 12 credits. The course "work placement" is enrolled only with the Faculty administrator's office

- Once enrolled in the "Work placement" course, in order to be evaluated, the student must:

- o Have finished their Work Placement or (even if they have not finished) have completed at least 360 hours thereof from the date on which they meet the enrolment requirements.
- o Have submitted all necessary documentation to their academic Tutor within the deadlines indicated by the tutor.

- Those students who carry out work placement in companies during the summer months, must consider that:

1. Once the student has enrolled in the work placement course, the grade obtained will appear in the September official examination results, provided that all the documentation necessary for evaluation is presented to their academic tutor within the period established by the tutor. Otherwise, the September official examination results will include the grade "Not submitted" and the student will be able to enrol for the second time (paying the corresponding public prices) for the work placement course in the following academic year. In this new course, their qualification may appear in the official examination results of the special examination session for November, when they comply with the requirements established to apply for this examination session, or in the official examination results of the ordinary examination session (January or June) when the student does not request or cannot request the special examination session for November.
2. The student can decide NOT to enrol in the work placement course in the current academic year, but may do the work placement in a company during the summer months, provided that they meet the requirements and once the acceptance document has been signed by the company, they go to the Faculty administrator's office and be assigned a tutor. In this case, their qualification may not appear in the September official examination results and, therefore, they may enrol the following academic year so that this grade appears in their official examination results in the ordinary examination session (in January or June) of the aforementioned course, given that, being the first enrolment, the student will not be able to request the special examination session for November .

- More detailed information can be found on the Faculty of Economic and Business website:

2.8. UNDERGRADUATE DISSERTATION (TFG)

In order to enrol in the undergraduate dissertation (TFG) (6 credits), which is compulsory, the student must have earned at least 70% of the credits of the degree, that is, 168 credits, distributed as follows:

- the 60 credits of basic training,
- at least 90 compulsory credits and
- the rest, if applicable, can be completed as options, up to a maximum of 18 credits.

In addition, according to the UGR regulations, the student must note that:

- At the time of enrolling in the Undergraduate dissertation (TFG), they must be enrolled in all the credits that are missing to finish the Grado (Bachelor's Degree) in Economics.
- The grade of the Undergraduate dissertation (TFG) cannot be incorporated into the student's academic record until the rest of the credits of the degree have been earned.

For more information on Undergraduate dissertation (TFG) s, the student should consult the Regulation of the Work or Undergraduate dissertation (TFG) of the UGR (NCG187/2), approved in the ordinary session of the Governing Council on 21 November, 2022, and the regulations specific to the Faculty of Economic and Business.

2.9. SOME RECOMMENDATIONS

- Note that the configuration for carrying out the studies leading to the attainment of the various qualifications taught at the Faculty is affected by two fundamental issues:
 - a) The internal teaching organization of the Faculty, which is the scheme under which the teaching of the different courses that make up the curriculum is organized. This guide details the schedules and exam calendars for the current academic year. However, in case of possible variations caused by the development of the course, it is recommended to look at the corresponding bulletin board or the Faculty website.
 - b) The personal configuration of the curriculum by the student.
- Periodically check the notice boards of the Faculty administrator's office and, especially, the website of the Faculty and that of the degree.
- Follow the Faculty's publications on social networks, Facebook (<https://www.facebook.com/fccee.ugr.es/>) and Twitter (@FcceeUgr).
- Open an institutional email account at the University of Granada, where you can receive notifications related to your enrolment and academic record. YOU MUST CHECK IT REGULARLY.
- Keep a check on the information provided through the information screens located in the Faculty.
- Check that you are enrolled in the corresponding official examination results.
- Check the status of your official examination results in each examination session and after enrolling or altering enrolment.
- Students who begin their studies at the Faculty of Economic and Business of the University of Granada must inform themselves of the general regulations of the University of Granada and in particular of the specific regulations of the Faculty of Economic and Business. It is especially recommended that students consult the regulations cited in this section.
